Description:
Presenting with confidence is a must! Delivering a successful presentation is the hallmark of an excellent speaker. So, what are your speaking skills like? How comfortable are you with your audience? How often do you speak to groups of your peers? Learning the art of public speaking helps us to keep the fear at bay, to become more confident, and to ultimately be able to work the speech, speaker and audience together in a way that stimulates the senses!
This workshop is designed for Department of Education employees who make presentations to groups of people (students, peers, parents etc) - and who want to feel more confident when they present.

Content:
Relaxation techniques
Body language – its importance
Preparation of a topic – its objectives
Impromptu speaking – its benefits
Visuals re-enforce verbals